

To whom it may concern

I have had the opportunity to see Fred speak numerous times.

He has the ability to connect to his audience as individuals. In my position, I know the critical importance of the mind set of both teachers and students. Fred is able to implant scientific knowledge on how teachers and professors can connect more effectively with their students. He also has the ability to inspire students with a drive and a believable action plan for their future.

Fred has an easy going and authentic speaking style, yet commands presence on stage.

I highly recommend any College and University to bring Fred Sarkari in to speak to their professors and students.
